Arrival by airplane.

From Tegel airport

Take bus X9 heading towards S+U-Bahnhof Zoologischer Garten and get off at U-Bahnhof Ernst-Reuter-Platz. It will take approximately 15 minutes.

From Schönefeld airport

Take the free shuttle bus to the S-Bahn station Flughafen Berlin-Schönefeld. From there, take the AirportExpress train (DB RE7 bzw. DB RB14) heading towards Belzig/Dessau or Nauen. Get off at the Zoologischer Garten station. Next, take the U-Bahn line U2 heading towards Ruhleben and get off at Ernst-Reuter-Platz. Together, it will take approximately 45 minutes. The AirportExpress departs approximately every 30 minutes.

Travelling to T-Labs by car.

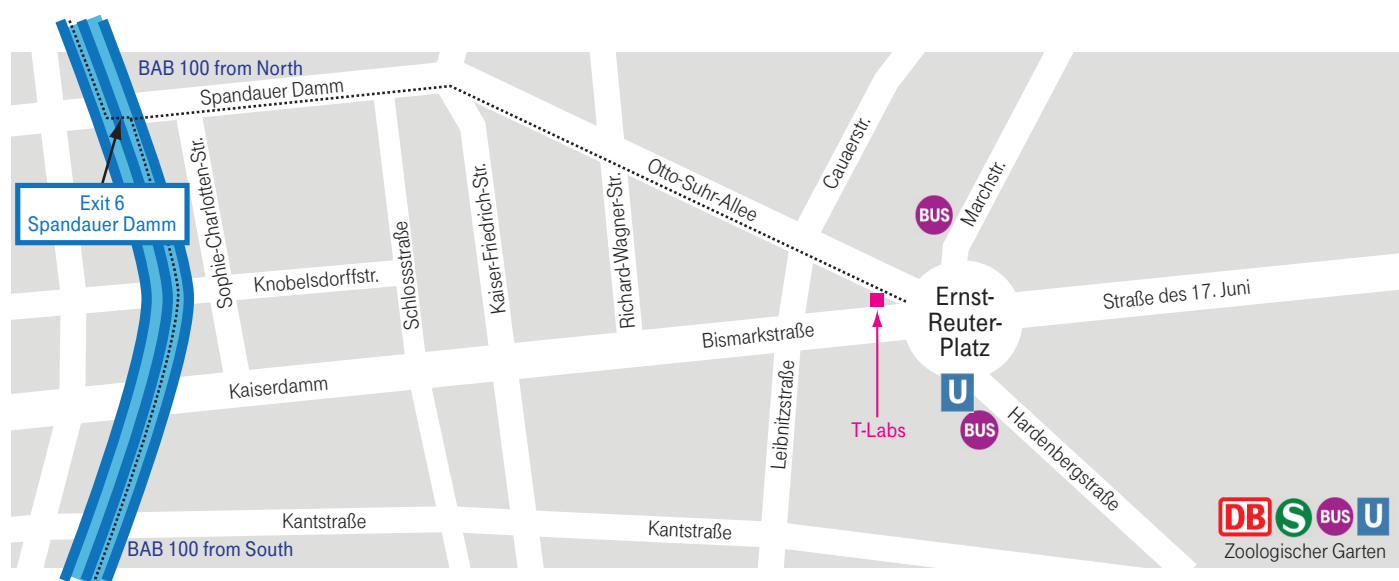

General remarks on travelling to Berlin by car

If you are travelling to Berlin by car, it is best to take the highway or Stadtautobahn (see overview map). From the exit marked Spandauer Damm, it is approximately a 10-minute drive to Ernst-Reuter-Platz, depending on the traffic.

Parking

There is always plenty of (metered) parking slots in Bismarckstraße.

Parking in Otto-Suhr-Allee is free of charge, but it can be a little bit further from Ernst-Reuter Platz.

Arriving from the north via the A 111

Follow the A 111. This will automatically take you onto the A 100. Take the exit marked Spandauer Damm, and turn left into Spandauer Damm. Follow Spandauer Damm / Otto-Suhr-Allee until you reach Ernst-Reuter-Platz.

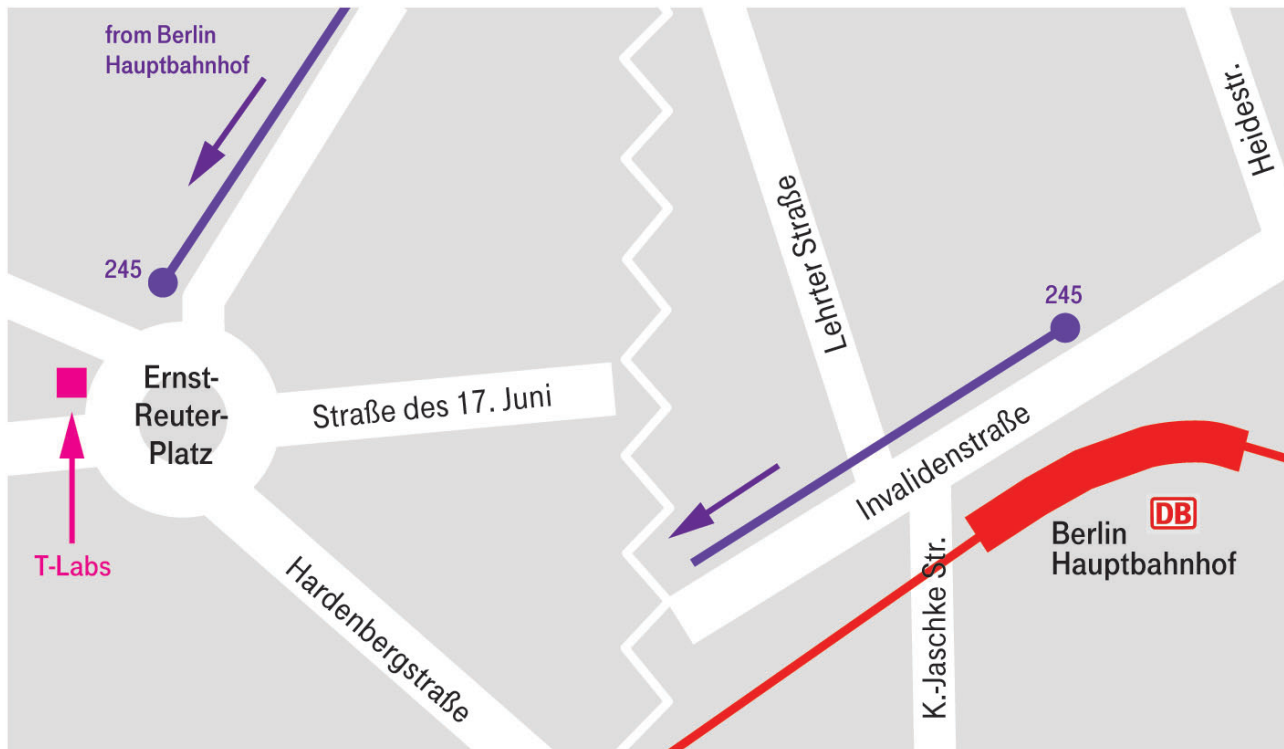

Arriving from the south via the A 115 (Avus) or the A 100

If you are arriving via the A 115 (Avus), please continue to the intersection Dreieck Funkturm. From there, take the A 100 heading towards Hamburg. Take the exit marked Spandauer Damm and turn right into Spandauer Damm. Follow Spandauer Damm / Otto-Suhr-Allee until you reach Ernst-Reuter-Platz.

Arrival by train.

Arriving at Berlin Hauptbahnhof railway station

Take the Bus No. 245 heading towards S+U Zoologischer Garten. Get off at bus stop Marchstraße. The bus departs every 10 minutes from Invalidenstraße (just north of the station) and the trip takes about 20 minutes.
